

8.570491

DDD

Playing Time
65:41Made in the EU
www.naxos.com© & © 2007
Naxos Rights International Ltd.
Booklet notes in English

The musical language of Alfred Hill's string quartets is reminiscent of Dvořák and Tchaikovsky with easily remembered melodies crafted within the harmonic texture of the romantic era, rhythmic vitality in the outer movements, and consistently beautiful slow movements of much charm. The blend of antipodean nationalism with the traditional forms and musical language of late nineteenth-century Europe brings a uniqueness and freshness that has appeal on a first hearing, yet reveals a wealth of underlying ideas on further acquaintance.

Alfred
HILL
(1869–1960)

String Quartets
Vol. 1

String Quartet No. 1 in B flat major, 'Maori'	22:34	6 II. The Dream	6:53
1 I. Moderato – Allegro	6:54	7 III. Scherzo	3:39
2 II. Waiata	3:16	8 IV. Finale	6:02
3 III. Tangi (Lament)	4:18	String Quartet No. 3 in A minor, 'The Carnival'	20:34
4 IV. Finale	7:58	9 I. In the Streets	4:56
String Quartet No. 2 in G minor, 'A Maori Legend in Four Scenes'	22:14	10 II. Andantino	5:17
5 I. The Forest	5:31	11 III. Scherzo	3:02
		12 IV. Finale	7:17

Dominion Quartet

Yury Gezentsvey, David Pucher, violins • Donald Maurice, viola • David Chickering, cello

Recorded at the Expressions Theatre, Upper Hutt, New Zealand, 22nd–23rd May & 16th–17th October 2006
 Producer & Editor: Wayne Laird • Assistant Producers: Richard Mapp, Kerrie Davies • Engineer: Keith Warren
 Publisher: Stiles Music Publishers • Booklet notes: Donald Maurice • Cover painting by Chai Ben-Shan
This recording was made possible by funding from Massey University, Wellington