Dear Listeners,

It is 20 years since Naxos AudioBooks, born out of the Naxos classical record label, released its first recordings: Anton Lesser reading Milton’s Paradise Lost, Jim Norton reading Ulysses, Laura Paton reading Grimm’s Fairy Tales. Two decades on, and I can look with delight and encouragement on some 700 titles – encouragement because if all our listeners didn’t enjoy them and buy them, we wouldn’t make them: ergo, classics are alive and well on audio!

And, 20 years on, there is still a thrill in the air. 250 years ago, Edward Gibbon sat on the Palatine Hill overlooking Rome and determined to write his history which would prove to be one of the greatest works of Western literature – The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, to give the magnum opus its full title.

How timely, then, for the inimitable David Timson to undertake this formidable, 6-volume project. He was faced not just with size – some 110 CDs running to 140 hours – and the delivery of Gibbon’s magnificent Augustan prose (likened by one commentator to a massive Roman aqueduct). He had to consider which of the thousands of footnotes made by Gibbon to add to the main narrative – some are just academic references which can be ignored on audiobook, while others are fascinating adjuncts to the main narrative and should be included.

It is only one of a number of strong new titles coming this year. Juliet Stevenson’s new reading of Flaubert’s Madame Bovary will, I am sure, join her peerless recordings of Middlemarch, To the Lighthouse, and Jane Austen high up in the list of our best-sellers, an indication of what a discerning lot you are!

Bill Homewood’s riproaring readings of French classics continue apace this year with more Dumas while, on the other side of the coin, we have no fewer than six more unabridged Georgette Heyer titles coming in the second half of the year.

The manner of our listening has changed out of all recognition in these 20 years. Once mainly cassettes, it is now increasingly downloads with some CDs. We are becoming accustomed to listening on devices that we carry with us for instant access, whether on foot, in a train, in car or at home – perhaps while doing some activity, or even the traditional way, just listening!

A remarkable number listen and read the text at the same time, for the ultimate experience – and it certainly enriches the understanding of testing texts such as Ulysses! Whichever way, I hope you continue to enjoy our recordings, and come back to the website, or follow us on Facebook or Twitter to keep up to date with our news.

PRESS QUOTES

BARRY LYNDON
(Complete Classics)
‘Reading in a rich, accented voice and making use of understated narration, Keeble immediately transports listeners back to the 18th century. His tone is firm and commanding, and he digs deep into Thackeray’s prose to precisely capture the very essence of Lyndon. Keeble’s narration is well paced, his timing impeccable. And while this audiobook weighs in at about 13 hours – a lengthy commitment for the casual listener – Keeble manages to keep his audience engaged for the duration.’

PUBLISHERS WEEKLY

GORMENGHAST
(Complete Classics)
‘Narrator Rupert Degas not only reads the heightened prose with focus and energy, he also makes the entire book more easily accessible by creating distinct and memorable character voices. As Peake practically paints with language, Degas faithfully weaves the poetic colours, shadows and textures.’

B.P., AUDIOFILE

HARD TIMES & GREAT EXPECTATIONS
(Complete Classics)
‘Lesser’s recordings for Naxos of Hard Times and Great Expectations make marvellous listening. Hard Times features Mr Gradgrind, that ardent believer in facts, whose daughter Louisa is more interesting and more damaged than most of Dickens’s heroines. In Great Expectations, Lesser’s narration combines even more superbly with the author’s descriptive powers. This is the best of Dickens, brilliantly delivered.’

JULIAN MARGARET GIBBS, THE TABLET

METAMORPHOSES
(Poetry)
‘David Horovitch’s lyrical, polished voice makes listening to the many lines of the Metamorphoses that much more enjoyable. He revels in the bucolic scenes but turns on his contempt for the violent and horrifying moments. Horovitch enhances the telling, and invokes a togaed poet entrancing the multitudes.’

JOANNA THEISS, SOUND COMMENTARY

SWANN’S WAY
(Complete Classics)
‘Jason’s rendition is mesmerising, elegant and supple. He unwinds the long sentences gracefully and with impeccable phrasing. He shades the voices of the many speakers to match their characters, and his pronunciation of French names and places is adept. There are, of course, new, less reticent translations, but Jason’s reading of this celebration is itself a masterpiece.’

KATHERINE A. POWERS, THE WASHINGTON POST

TOM JONES
(Complete Classics)
‘Bill Homewood is a great storyteller and this multi-character novel calls on all of his skills to succeed, which it does on many levels. His ability to give a unique voice to every single one of the many characters, and to keep each voice straight and separate is truly a wonder. It is hard to understand how he manages to do it. Evil is so evil in Homewood’s hands and the humour is there too, sly and subtle, but unmistakable. The length of the novel demands an outstanding and dramatic performance and it is hard to fathom a better one.’

SUE ROSENZWEIG, SOUND COMMENTARY

VANITY FAIR
(Complete Classics)
‘Georgina Sutton’s sparklingly fresh narration of Vanity Fair is a marvellous way to follow the fortunes of the orphaned Becky Sharp, surely the most ingenious, resourceful and wicked woman in all literature.’

CHRISTINA HARDYMENT, THE TIMES

THE WARDEN
(Complete Classics)
‘Shaw-Parker excels in capturing Trollope’s humorous asides and pointed barbs at the sins of society and the frailties of its members. His care in creating memorable characters is also notable. He deftly varies tones and speech patterns to reflect the large cast… Shaw Parker’s narration enlivens this classic and creates an irresistible listening experience.’
