Along with Suchoň and Cikker, Alexander Moyzes was one of the three leading Slovak composers who, after World War I, instigated a modernizing process which took account of contemporary trends in music. If, in their brilliant compositional technique, Moyzes's first two symphonies symbolize a new beginning, they also demonstrate that the source of much of his musical inspiration lay in the folk music and beautiful landscape of his native Slovakia.

Recorded at the Concert Hall of the Slovak Radio in Bratislava from 27th to 30th September, 1993 (Symphony No. 1) and from 16th to 20th May, 1994 (Symphony No. 2)
Producer: Emil Nižňanský
Engineer: Hubert Geschwandtner
