

Richard Wagner's son Siegfried initially studied to become an architect, but the pull of music was too strong and he composed 15 operas, among other works. An Allem ist Hütchen Schuld! ('Everything is Little-Hat's Fault!') has a multi-layered plotline that alludes to at least 40 fairy tales. These are all brought together into a storyline in which Katherlies'chen and Frieder's intentions to be married take them on fantastical adventures, with the goblin Little-Hat at the heart of all the goings-on. With its expressive orchestration, lyricism and late Romantic colour, this is an opera that transports you into a world in which anything seems possible.
