Johann Christoph Friedrich Bach, the third of the sons of Johann Sebastian Bach to achieve musical distinction, composed some twenty symphonies as well as concertos, chamber and instrumental music, and a number of vocal works. The three elegant and witty symphonies on this disc are delightful examples of the synthesis between mid-to-late 18th-century Italian and German musical styles which marks the transition from Baroque to Classical. The acclaimed Leipzig Chamber Orchestra has recorded Haydn's The Seasons (8.557600-01), Mozart's Davide penitente (8.570231) and Requiem (8.557728) as well as a series of Schubert's Masses (8.572114, 8.570381, 8.572279 & 8.570764).
