

Daa Dee is the first groove a baby learns in Ethiopia as it takes its first steps. It is the sound the mother makes to help her baby in its first attempt at independence. Minyeshu explores her own upbringing and the resulting positive changes in this uplifting album of strength, vulnerability, faith and doubts overcome. Minyeshu's music is profoundly respectful of her roots, yet intensely personal and creative.

A large, semi-transparent photograph of a woman with dark hair, wearing a red shawl, dancing on a beach. She is in profile, facing right. The background shows the ocean and a cloudy sky.
