

Georgette Heyer

The Black Moth

Read by Julian Rhind-Tutt

When the dashing Jack Carstairs is unfairly accused of cheating at cards, he leaves the country in disgrace. Returning some years later disguised as a highwayman, his reappearance heralds a dramatic chain of events that includes a Duke, a damsels, a duel and not one, but two kidnappings. Written when she was just seventeen, The Black Moth was Heyer's first novel, but it bears many of the hallmarks of her later romances, being vivid, witty and peppered with historical insight.

Julian Rhind-Tutt has starred in cult comedies Green Wing and Keen Eddie and appeared in Marple, Black Books and Oliver Twist. His film credits include The Madness of King George and Notting Hill. In 1992 he received the Carleton Hobbs award and has since featured in more than 50 radio productions.
