Great Rulers of Ancient Rome

Read by Benjamin Soames

The common view of the Romans is that they were only interested in watching gladiators hack one another to pieces, and in lying on couches while they stuffed large meals down their throats. But of course they were a busy and clever people, who built up a great empire to prove it, with fine cities and harbours, bath houses and roads, laws and good government. In this audiobook you can hear the stories of the great Roman emperors and the enduring legacy that they left for later generations.

Benjamin Soames trained at LAMDA. He has read The Tale of Troy, The Adventures of Odysseus, More Tales from the Greek Legends and Stories from Shakespeare – The Plantagenets for Naxos AudioBooks.
