

swiss chamber music

romantics from two centuries

This programme is closely linked to the Swiss Clarinet Music album (Musiques Suisses NXMS7002) – the research for which unearthed several more rarities. All of the works here share a musical idiom that is deeply rooted in Romanticism. The surprising harmonic turns and generous melodic lines of Eschmann's Two Fantasy Pieces are reminiscent of Schumann and Mendelssohn, while Paul Juon has been described as 'the missing link between Tchaikovsky and Stravinsky'. Flury's Trio was written to mark the 25th anniversary of Radio Bern, and Müller-Zürich, one of the most significant figures in Swiss 20th-century musical life, demonstrates the utmost technical refinement in his Quartet.

JOHANN CARL ESCHMANN (1826–1882)

1–2 Two Fantasy Pieces, Op. 9
for clarinet and piano (1850–51) 13:09

8 RICHARD FLURY (1896–1967)
Trio in one movement for clarinet, cello and piano (1950) 10:19

3–5 PAUL JUON (1872–1940)
Trio in A minor, Op. 17 for clarinet
(original: violin), cello and piano (1901) 23:42

9–10 PAUL MÜLLER-ZÜRICH (1898–1993)
Quartet in C minor, Op. 26 for violin, clarinet, cello and piano (1937, revised 1952 and 1971) 11:57

6–7 Two Pieces, Op. 25
for clarinet and piano (1902)* 07:59

Total playing time: 67:27

*world premiere recording

Bernhard Röthlisberger clarinet • Fióna Kraege violin 9 10
Milena Umiglia cello 3–5 8–10 • Benjamin Engeli piano

A co-production with Schweizer Radio SRF 2 Kultur

Burgergemeinde
Bern

Kultur
Stadt Bern

Booklet notes in English · Notice en français · Kommentar auf Deutsch
© & © 2021 Naxos Rights (Europe) Ltd
Made in Germany

