

Despite being eccentric and at odds with his fellow human beings for most of his life, Danish composer Rued Langgaard was convinced that his time would come – and so it did. In Langgaard's Symphony No. 1, we find its teenage composer celebrating his love of beauty and harmony in the most hedonistic terms. With this recording the symphony sees it return home, performed by the Berliner Philharmoniker, the first orchestra that understood what a masterpiece perhaps the greatest talent that had ever been seen in Danish music had created.

Rued Langgaard (1893–1952)

Symphony No. 1, Cliffside Pastorals, BVN 32 (1908–1911)

55:34

Berliner Philharmoniker

Conducted by Sakari Oramo

Live recording

World premiere recording of The Rued Langgaard Edition (2010)

© & © 2022 Dacapo Records
www.dacapo-records.dk
Made in Germany & distributed by
NGL Naxos Global Logistics

